Dear Federal Communications Commission,

I want to buy an iPhone but I want the freedom to use it on other networks.

I want to be able to use a local SIM card when I travel overseas so local callers do not have to pay for an overseas call just to reach me nearby.

Sincerely,

John Rettie

Dear Federal Communications Commission,

Cell phones/smart phones and the iPhone are fantastic devices.
Please allow open access during the upcoming auction of the 700 mhz spectrum, so that devices can be used on any network.

Dear Federal Communications Commission,

The iPhone has set the stage for the future of mobile Internet
-- but bad policies allow companies like AT&T and Verizon to shackle great gadgets to their closed networks.

To free wireless Internet, the FCC and Congress must use the 700MHz spectrum auction to create an open network that gives consumers:

1. The freedom to use whatever device we want on any network.
2. The freedom to choose among many providers in a competitive wholesale marketplace.
3. The freedom to access any content or services we want through our devices.
